

KATIE CULLUM

Katie is a paediatric nurse by background. She currently works as Lead Nurse for Innovation and Quality Improvement at the EoE Operational Delivery Network(ODN) and is a qualified QSIR practitioner. Katie is also a member of the BAPM Quality Steering Group.

Katie is programme lead for the Neonatal Transitional Care Programme a national programme of study she introduced, whilst working as Nurse Education Programme Lead in 2021. This programme was shortlisted for the nursing times award in 2021 and won the BAPM GOPI MENON award in 2022 for 'Outstanding Team'. Katie has always enjoyed teaching both clinically, regionally and as an Associate Lecturer for HEI's. Katie holds a PGCert in Clinical Education awarded from the University of Edinburgh.

Katie is also an Advanced Neonatal Nurse Practitioner and non-medical prescriber and has worked for many years in neonatal intensive care. Katie studied at Southampton University for this and obtained her MSc in Advance Practice in 2015. Katie has also enjoyed a range of other previous roles such as Freedom to Speak up Guardian, Staff Governor, Neuroprotection Lead Nurse, Bereavement Lead, Neonatal Sister and Paediatric Staff Nurse.

In 2022 Katie carried out the Mary Seacole Leadership Programme with the FNF and requested to become a FNF Alumni 'Champion' to promote the excellent leadership courses FNF offers and support the FNF and it students.